

OB Council would move In Between

The ad hoc committee of the Ocean Beach Town Council has issued a statement declaring the presence of the In Between on Newport Ave. a detriment to the commercial community of Ocean Beach.

Committee members say they have a petition signed by 95 percent of the merchants on Newport Ave. asking for the relocation of the controversial youth meeting hall. The In Between, in the 5000 block of Newport, enjoys the sponsorship of local church groups and other individuals and organizations. Many youngsters with long hair and others regarded as hippies by numerous local residents frequent the meeting hall.

The ad hoc committee brought its petition before the Ocean Beach Town Council's board of directors this week, but action on the issue was tabled until a future meeting.

Ned Titlow, president of the Ocean Beach Town Council, said there is a feeling on the board that there should be a public meeting on the problem of the In Between, with representatives of opposing camps in attendance. He said the human relations committee of the council has been asked to arrange such a meeting and place it on the schedule of future council events.

Titlow said the issues of "rights" are complex in the matter. He said the merchants in the area feel they have a right to run their businesses and that they say the In Between attracts the type of youngsters who frighten and discourage the average shopper.

Supporters of the In Between feel they have a right to carry out their work with youth where they please, and that their mission is more important than the success or failure of the business district, he noted.

"The merchants feel the In Between should relocate," said Titlow. He added that In Between sponsors are stubborn on proposals regarding moving. He said merchants once planned to give financial assistance to the In Between in order to move it elsewhere.

Boat ban is urged by Hahn

Support for a proposed ordinance to curb living aboard boats in Mission Bay has been urged by City Manager Walter Hahn.

In a report to the mayor and City Council this week he said, "The prohibition of permanent residence aboard boats will inconvenience a few people, but will benefit the whole community in the prevention of pollution of Mission Bay and in the development of an aquatic recreation area in conformance with the intent of the state grant in trust under which most of the Mission Bay Park lands are held."

The ordinance will appear on the council's docket soon, Hahn said. And he recommends approval.

THE MANAGER'S SUPPORT of the ordinance is based on somewhat different grounds than the support voiced recently by the city Park and Recreation Board.

The board said a report from the county health director of pollution in the bay precipitated the crackdown on boat dwellers by pointing out that boats are used as permanent residences.

But the real question, according to the board, was not pollution but the use of a dedicated park for permanent residence.

In his report Hahn referred to both pollution and improper use of park area as grounds for passing the ordinance.

The city management has been aware of the increasing danger of bay pollution for some time, he said. Certain city and state code sections prohibit throwing rubbish into the bay, but enforcement is difficult because offenders usually must be caught in the act to secure a conviction.

THE PROPOSED ORDINANCE would take care of this difficulty by prohibiting overnight stays on a boat unless it has a self-contained restroom.

But besides taking care of the pollution problem, the ordinance would limit living on a boat to ninety days during any calendar year.

At the meeting of the Park and Recreation Board when the ordinance was approved, boat dwellers said they would be glad to seal the restrooms on their boats if they could continue living aboard them.

But the board said pollution was not the main issue, although it was important. The overriding question was whether permanent residence should be allowed in the park. And the board decided it should not.

BOAT DWELLERS POINTED out that their craft require the same amount of moorage area, whether or not anyone is living aboard. But the board replied that the purpose of the park — active aquatic recreation — precludes boat dwelling, even though no space will be preserved by prohibiting it.

The proposed ordinance would allow staying aboard a boat up to 72 hours in Quivira Basin. At other anchorages or mooring areas no overnight occupancy would be allowed.

The burden of enforcing the regulation would fall on park lessees.

"The lessees of Mission Bay Park lands of the city are responsible for the enforcement of this subsection on the water abutting their leased lands," the ordinance says.

IT'S TOUGH COUNTING NOSES

Miss Peninsula pageant set

The exact number of girls keeps going up and down, but everyone will be present Thursday at 8 p.m. when the judging begins in the annual Miss Peninsula contest at the Kona Kai Club on Shelter Island.

Mrs. Wendy Reynolds, contest chairman, said it's been tough counting noses, since some of the girls are "here today and gone tomorrow." But at last count there were 10 lovelies ready to compete in the annual event.

With one exception, all the girls attend or have attended Point Loma High School. The lineup now includes Susan Stanton, Jill Buckingham, Debra Diane Drew, Rosella Waggoner, Alicia Chase, Constance M. Anderson, Patricia Lind, Jennifer Ekern and Frankie Donnell. Melissa Lynn Ruis hails from Midway High School.

The pageant is sponsored by the Peninsula Chamber of Commerce and the Peninsula Ballet Company. Those who wish to attend the event may purchase tickets either at the Chamber office, 1352 Sunset Cliffs Blvd., or at the Ballet studio.

Jim Wetzel and Wright Benson, local radio personalities, will present the awards. "There are really two titles for which the girls will be going," noted Mrs. Reynolds. "There is Miss Popularity as well as Miss Peninsula. More than $200 worth of prizes will go to the big winner."

The evening will begin with a no-host cocktail hour from 7 to 8 p.m., with the contest and show following.

Until that time the pretty girls are rehearsing under Mrs. Reynolds' direction and trying to get over their last-minute jitters.

Ventura span to be replaced

Plans are under way to replace Ventura Bridge in Mission Bay Park.

A recommendation for employment of a structural engineering firm for the project soon will go to the City Council from the city manager's office, according to Floyd Moore, city capital improvements engineer.

He said four structural engineering firms in San Diego were considered for the job: Fervor-Dorland & Associates, Whitman-Atkinson & Associates, James R. Libby & Associates and A. J. Blaylock and Associates.

They were interviewed at length by Assistant City Manager Meno Wilhelms and the city engineer, Ed Gabrielson. All are considered capable of handling the project, Moore said, but the city manager's office has chosen one to recommend to the council. The name of the firm selected has not been made public yet.

Council approval of a structural engineering firm will kick off the designing of the structure.

The Capital Improvements Program has $2.074 million budgeted for the bridge and its approaches.

Whichever firm is chosen will employ an architect to help it design a bridge compatible with the park setting.

Because of the size of the project, designing will be a lengthy process, Moore said. Actual construction will not begin for some months.

While the new bridge is being built, traffic will continue traveling across the old one.

The new span will be a few feet to the west of the 20-year-old wooden bridge, and the jog in the northern approach will be eliminated.

Sports area, apartments set

The Point Loma Tennis Club has announced plans to build a 234-unit apartment building at 2650 Worden St., Loma Portal.

An 8,000-square-foot clubhouse, four night-lighted tennis courts, an Olympic-sized swimming pool and a putting green also are planned.

Building probably will start soon on the project, which is expected to cost in excess of $275,000.

Signal system to be improved at intersection

A more efficient traffic signal system will be installed soon at the intersection of W. Point Loma and Nimitz Blvds.

The City Council this week approved a resolution to invite bids for modification of the existing signals.

According to city traffic engineer Don Robbins, pedestrian indicators will be added, and larger arrows — 12-inch instead of eight-inch — will be installed for the left-turn pockets on Nimitz.

Loop detectors will replace the metal-plate detectors which indicate the arrival of a car. The newer detectors are sensitive to the speed as well as the presence of cars, he said.

Life in the tidepools proposed display topic

The Ocean Beach Town Council's board of directors voted Thursday to spend up to $100 on the development of an outdoor educational display near the Municipal Fishing Pier.

Ned Titlow, president of the council, said the creation of the display would depend on the approval and cooperation of the city.

"The display would present in illustrations and explain in words the types of life in Ocean Beach tidepools and on local beaches," he said.

"There really are two main purposes of the display. The first is educational and the second is conservation. Council directors have felt for some time that there should be some protection for tidepool and seashore life. This protection can be attained by developing public understanding of the ecology of the area. Then people will be content to look and leave the tidepool life undisturbed."

The suggestion for the display was developed in the Ocean Beach council's beaches, bay and zoning committee, headed by Al Vallin. Committee members say they hope the display will be set up under the fishing pier, where it would be protected from the direct rays of the sun.

"The display would contain pictures and descriptions of the tidepool life," Titlow said. "It would use a base of marine plywood, sealed by either wax or epoxy. A representative of a San Diego State College class in marine biology has offered to furnish some of the necessary pictures and scientific information."

He said the proposed display already has met the enthusiastic response of several council members, including one resident who gave money to support the project.

"Naturally we have to have the idea approved by the city, and we already are investigating the possibility of having the display lighted at night," Titlow said.

Anti-dog proposal has pros and cons

The Mission Beach and Ocean Beach Town Councils crossed swords this week over a proposed city ordinance which would bar all dogs, leashed or unleashed, from San Diego beaches.

The executive board of the Mission Beach Town Council met Wednesday and voted to oppose the ordinance. Following the meeting, members of the council's action committee contacted officials of the Peninsula Chamber of Commerce, the La Jolla and Pacific Beach Town Councils and the Ocean Beach council, asking them to take a stand against the proposed law.

But the Ocean Beach council's board of directors met Thursday and voted to support it.

The ordinance is a recommendation of the Beaches Committee of the Park and Recreation Board, which met April 22. It is the suggestion of committee member Mrs. John Ready and Mrs. June Sandford, committee member and representative of the Pacific Beach council. Mission Beach council spokesmen say the executive board will ask the city for a stronger enforcement of the present city ordinance, which prohibits unleashed dogs from running loose without their owners on public beaches.

Al C. Edwards, community action chairman for the Mission Beach council said he is encouraging the Pacific Beach and La Jolla councils to rally behind the Mission Beach stand.

"We feel the aswer to the problem is simply better enforcement of the present law," said Edwards. "The city recently purchased a four-wheel-drive animal regulation truck which should be in operation. Comments of local residents indicate the truck is not anywhere near maximum use."

Edwards said the deposits dogs leave in the sand "tend to deteriorate" faster than they do on city sidewalks and streets. He said it would be a continuation of the Beaches Committee logic to bar dogs from streets as well, leaving them no place to go at all.

Ned Titlow, president of the Ocean Beach Town council, said there was only one negative vote when the board of directors rallied in support of the proposed ordinance. "It was felt that the dogs create a mess and public health hazard and that they should be kept off the beaches altogether," he said.

The Mission Beach board went so far as to make a recommendation of the best hours for the "dogcatcher" to come to the Mission Beach area. Edwards said 6 to 8 a.m. and 4 to 6 p.m. are the best hours to catch stray dogs.

"There is a problem around the Santa Clara Recreation Center," said Edwards. "There is a chance that the stray dogs there could bite children. However, the present ordinance, if enforced, could take care of the situation."

FOUNTAIN DEDICATION

Msgr. Kenneth Stack, assisted by the Rev. Peter Borda and the Rev. Robert De Ponte, officiates at the dedication of a new fountain and statue in the patio of Sacred Heart Church, Ocean Beach. The statue was a joint project of the Knights of Columbus Council 3947 and Mrs. Fred Rosso, wife of the late charter member Fred Rosso. Grand knight George Tasch commanded an honor guard of fourth degree knights in a salute to Mrs. Rosso, who was brought from a local hospital for the ceremony.

Whoa! We're out

The Sentinel will be unable to fill any more orders for copies of its special 200th anniversary "Image" edition.

The demand for copies to be sent to out-of-state friends and relatives of Sentinel readers has been so great that it has completely exhausted the large press run.

Since no remaining copies exist, the Sentinel cannot accept additional orders.

Districting change eyed

The boundaries of City Council districts should be drawn on the basis of total population rather than the number of registered voters, according to a subcommittee of the Citizens' Charter Review Convention.

The subcommittee voted this week to recommend the City Charter be changed to draw the boundaries on the basis of population to give fairer representation to districts with a low percentage of voters.

Job Fair gaining; new meeting set

Support for the Job Fair is gaining momentum.

Some of the union restrictions which had kept employers from agreeing to hire disadvantaged youths are being eliminated.

And federal, city and county agencies have agreed to provide nearly 1,000 summer jobs.

The Job Fair, planned June 4 in the Convention Hall of the downtown Community Concourse, will bring together employers and potential employees for on-the-spot hiring.

The fair's goal is to obtain a job for every disadvantaged youth between 16 and 21 who wants to work this summer.

The Mayor's Committee for the San Diego Job Fair will meet with business leaders Wednesday in an attempt to recruit more summer positions.

Fair chairman Sid Gillman said an emergency meeting has been set for Tuesday by the San Diego County Labor Council to waive union restrictions which have curtailed summer employment of young people.

Gillman said union officials have pledged 50 jobs for the fair.

More than 100 large businesses have been invited to send representatives to the Wednesday meeting. It is hoped pledges of jobs can be obtained from them.

Looking back on 33 years of fighting child cripplersBy SARAH CONGDON
Sentinel Staff Writer

Crippled children, back in 1936, were schooled in one room in San Diego set aside for what was then a pioneering effort on their behalf by Mrs. Eva Ritchie — teaching and treating simultaneously.

That room, placed, fittingly enough, between the old Children's Hospital and the Emerson School in 1935, welcomed 27 children. They were crippled by diseases which humanity has in tight control today.

Mrs. Ritchie will retire this year, and members of her staff and the Sunshine School PTA will honor her at a public tea party today from 1 to 4 p.m., in the school at 6991 Balboa Ave.

On her way out ("to rest," she says), Mrs. Ritchie took time this week to recall the cripples, then and now, that have sent children into her care and tutelage.

"IN 1936 THE CHILDREN were mostly victims of asthma and rheumatic fever. Now we have medical controls for those, and our first obligation is to children with cerebral palsy.

"Heart disease was worse. We now have children operated upon, and sent to public schools recovered. Inoperable heart cases, of course, we still have here," she said.

"We used to have polio victims. The last three have come from outside this country, and polio is practically non-existent in the United States.

"Students crippled by polio quit coming almost immediately after the vaccine was administered nationally. We got one child who took the disease from the vaccine while it was still being perfected.

"EPILEPSY CASES WE don't even take now, because our buses have no attendant, but the disease seems controlled." Buses, she said, are kept deliberately small so children are not overtired by long rides with constant stops for picking up others.

"Muscular dystrophy patients are here.

"We don't get those with multiple sclerosis, because it usually strikes in early adulthood.

"And children with cystic fibrosis are too handicapped for us to take."

A primary crippler today is congenital defects, the principal said. Especially bad is spina bifida—an imperfect spine. Mrs. Ritchie noted that progress has been made in care, but little in prevention.

The Orthopedic Hospital in Los Angeles is pioneering toward a breakthrough in such birth defects, she noted.

Did thalidomide babies push enrollments up?

"NO. SOME ARE BORN with no arm or leg," she said, "before and after" the birth control pill that was removed from sale when its effects were revealed by deformities.

Measles immunization the Sunshine School principal is grateful for. It has saved countless children from crippling.

But she's expecting an influx of students because of the rubella outbreak that infected expectant mothers four years ago. The school has one victim already.

The nature of cripples is not all that has changed since 1936 and that one-room school. Now 160 students, from age three through 12th grade, attend classes and therapy sessions in a facility that leaves out nothing in care and development of mind and body—or nothing that is noticeably lacking to a critical lay visitor.

PRINCIPAL RITCHIE

Also, a saguaro cactus fitted with rungs.

Apparatus abounds for mind and body coordination, a foundation to a crippled child's maximal improvement.

A BLIND CHILD READS in braille with four who are sighted, for competition and companionship. Someone cared enough not to put her in a reading room alone.

In a "picking" garden, sweet peas and succulent little vegetables are definitely not off limits to the youngster who wants to enjoy them.

A hill in the garden is specially planted with scuff-proof Bermuda grass so the principle of climbing can do its part to develop balance.

The play yard is unique. No ordinary jungle gym here, but a saguaro cactus fitted with rungs for stretching. The drawbridge nearby is a dinosaur's skeleton, cast like terra cotta and inset with jewels of turquoise tile by sculptor James Hubbell.

At the base of one such creation, which invites a child to go over and under and through, fresh mint is planted. Such sensory delight is everywhere at the Sunshine

School, in textures, graphic arts and eye-pleasing colors, depth and height contrast, and sounds.

LEARNING NEVER stands aside for physical growth, because therapists there are assigned from the Crippled Children's Services of the county Public Health Department for abilities and attitudes.

The "new way of teaching" that Eva Ritchie was asked to explore back in 1936 is newer still in 1969 because of medical strides and a brave new world of teaching method that never says "it can't be done" simply because it hasn't been before.

A letter written by Father Junipero Serra and a 1782 map of San Diego Bay are among the historical documents on view at a special San Diego 200th anniversary exhibit now open in the Bijou Room, Fine Arts Gallery, Balboa Park.

The exhibit is sponsored by the women's division of the San Diego chapter of the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge.

The display features documents, maps and paintings depicting the history of San Diego County and the founding of the United States.

The free exhibit is on view through June 15. Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesdays through Sundays. The gallery is closed Mondays.

A one-man show of photographs by Arthur M. Ariessohn is on display at the Esplanade Office Building in Mission Valley, across from the Stadium. The exhibit will be on display until May 31, and may be seen from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

A broker with Siegel Realty, Point Loma, Ariessohn has been working with photography as a hobby for 10 years. He finds inspiration for his pictures in a wide variety of subject material, ranging from portraits to abstracts, and uses high-contrast treatment where it enhances the visual effect.

NEW SAFEWAY STORE IN LA JOLLA (KEELE, INSET)
With a nationally known chef in the meat department.

NEW STORE GETS GOING WEDNESDAY

La Jolla Safeway to open

The new La Jolla Safeway store which opens Wednesday will feature an extensive gourmet section, liquor department, fresh fish department, imported and domestic cheese department and complete in-store bakery, according to Eileen Keele, store manager.

The building, at 7544 Girard Ave., replaces the existing facility located next door. The old building, built in 1951, will be destroyed to make room for a larger parking lot. The new lot will have parking facilities for 118 cars.

Designed by the San Diego

architectural-engineering firm of Tucker, Sadler & Bennett, the facade carries out the architectural motif of the La Jolla community by the extensive use of arches. Landscaping has been included in the expansion plans of the store, with trees along Girard and Fay Aves., and planters in the parking areas.

Keele has been with Safeway 22 years. He has been manager of the La Jolla store since he returned from England in 1967. While there he trained Englishmen for work in the chain's 28 stores in Great Britain.

Also on the managerial staff of the store are Howard Liegl, assistant manager; David Medina, produce manager, and Carl Pejack, meat department manager. Pejack, an experienced chef, offers tips to shoppers and frequently has recipes published in national magazines.

The 27,000-square-foot store is constructed of concrete panels attractively finished with awnings and wide expanses of glass on the front exterior.

Hundreds of feet of modern refrigerated cases with scientifically controlled temperatures have been provided for meats, frozen foods, ice cream, dairy products and fruit and vegetables.

The new store will continue Safeway's San Diego County-wide discount pricing policy, according to Albert Myers, district manager.

Noting that Keele began his Safeway career as a store clerk in 1947, Myers said, "Our company is spending a considerable sum in each of its operating divisions throughout the U. S. and Canada in training young men. We are continually seeking eligible and qualified persons. They must be trained in basic duties to give them a fundamental knowledge of our business, and the progress from then on is up to the individual."

"By the time these young men become store managers they are in every sense an executive in our organization plan, and they are treated as such and compensated accordingly," said Myers.

The Constitution due for some rewriting

By LYLE DENNISTON

WASHINGTON—Politicians are in the habit of saying, usually in hushed tones, that they deeply revere the U. S. Constitution. Most of them may really mean it, since they do reflect the veneration the nation as a whole has for that document.

But politicians do not share the nation's apparent reluctance to tinker with the Constitution. Attempts to change it, though seldom successful, are not very far removed in any age from the routine of political life. Right now there seems more willingness than usual to rewrite some of the basic guarantees and fundamental controls of the hallowed instrument. For example:

The Nixon administration continues to flirt with the idea that some parts of the Bill of Rights ought to be changed, at least as they apply to criminal law enforcement.

Illinois' Republican Sen. Everett M. Dirksen is reviving, in a new mood of seriousness, his attempts to put prayers and religious rituals back into the public schools and to put more rural politicians back into state legislatures.

CONGRESSIONAL ADVOCATES OF ELECTION REFORM ARE moving, with dispatch and high hopes, toward revising the system of electing Presidents.

The efforts have been stimulated, in one way or another, by the modern constitutional daring of the Supreme Court. The justices are, of course, directly responsible for the Nixon administration and Dirksen efforts. Those are aimed precisely at overruling court decisions. The justices also gave election reformers some of their courage to work for the democratic ideal of "one man, one vote."

But, more basically, the justices have made it easier—if not yet more respectable—to regard the Constitution as a modern governmental tract that should more accurately reflect "the times."

Still, there is something of a tendency to be astonished at the process of constitutional modernization. Changes, by amendment or by Supreme Court ruling, are still widely regarded as sudden—even jolting—assaults on the wisdom of the nation's founders.

HOPEFULLY, A MAJOR PRIVATE STUDY DUE TO BE FINISHED in about 18 months will demonstrate more convincingly that the Constitution is, after all, an instrument of politics. In other words, it will be revealed as a document that has very much to do with the key political issue: who gets what and how, out of government.

The study is being financed by the Twentieth Century Fund, and the man in charge is Clement E. Vose. He is chairman of the government department on the faculty of Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn.

His assignment is, simply, to explore how and why the Constitution has changed, in this century. He will examine the flow of judicial decisions, and the more relaxed pace of actual constitutional amendment.

But Vose is doing so by a method only recently gaining widespread favor among scholars of government and politics. The professor is analyzing what various groups—more formally, "constituencies"—have been able to put into the Constitution or get out of it. For example, he will see how women have fared, as they gained constitutional status. Vose will look at property-owners, at labor, at business corporations, at minorities.

"THIS IS A STUDY," HE SAID RECENTLY, "OF THE CONSTANT redistribution of political 'clout' and of legal standing among different kinds of groups."

It is an approach that he has already taken in a book, "Caucasians Only," which analyzes the Supreme Court's first significant action against segregated housing 20 years ago.

Presumably his ultimate study—of book-length size—will illustrate how groups who want something through politics do not hesitate to go to the fundamentals of constitutional order and arrangement to get it.

While the Supreme Court has seemed particularly willing to accommodate such aims, the politicians have not been indifferent. They have made the Constitution seem, in this century, rather conspicuously subject to change.

Before 1900 the Constitution was amended only five times (besides the 10 Bill of Rights amendments that were adopted as the price of forming a national government).

IN FACT, AFTER CONGRESS AND THE STATE LEGISLATURES put the 11th and 12th Amendments into the document in 1793 and 1804, they waited 61 years before passing—in rapid succession—the three "Civil War amendments" on racial equality. Then, with those three adopted, they waited another 43 years—reaching into the 20th century—before making another change.

During the first two-thirds of this century, 10 amendments have been adopted. The longest wait between any of them was 18 years, between the 21st and 22nd. In a little more than 18 years since 1950, there have been four amendments.

And the temptation to change is getting stronger. It is still difficult, of course, to alter the Constitution. But it is no longer done in a mood of agony.

This is the year we were all supposed to have helicopters in our back yards. Well, maybe it didn't happen here, but it sure happened in Vietnam.

The next student who breaks into a dean's office should draw a severe penalty—like maybe 90 days in class.

It's just a thought, but let's hope our proposed defensive missiles work better than our offensive ones.

We hope the Marine Corps doesn't mind if we just skip this Korean war. We saw the last one.

If the French are really desperate for a president, we could always lend them Spiro Agnew.

Our educational system is balanced. Enrollments are up and attendance is down.

Right now there's probably a Martian being laughed at because he says he sees strange things in the sky and nobody will believe him.

Someone asked, "Did you see the last Smothers Brothers Show?" The answer: "I sure hope so."

England is powerless to control Northern Ireland. Most of its troops are still in Anguilla.

Nixon hopes to end organized gambling, but yesterday a bookie gave 8-5 odds against it.

If it's any consolation, Russia seems to be having more trouble with its satellites than we are with our allies.

We have a super-bacteria bomb. It gives enemy soldiers such bad breath they can't stand one another.

Medical student loan cutback will hurt U.S. in the long run

By JUDITH RANDAL

WASHINGTON — The nation is short on doctors and long on student protest. It is hardly surprising that eventually the two conditions should come together and that the place of their meeting should be Capitol Hill.

Medical students are, after all, students. Although older than many of today's activists, they are of the same generation and grew up in the same tradition.

Since 1964 the federal government, under a law known as the Health Professions Loan Act, has subsidized neophyte doctors, veterinarians and pharmacists by providing tuition loans for medical education. In the fiscal year that ends next month, for example, some $14.9 million will have been made available for this purpose.

BUT IF A PROPOSED budget cut becomes reality, $5 million which was to have been added in fiscal 1971 will be chopped just at the time would-be osteopaths and optometrists also will likely become eligible for aid.

For a long time SAMA (the Student Medical Association) served as a sort of Uncle Tom organization — to borrow a phrase from the black militants — obediently seconding the usually conservative views of the powerful American Medical Association.

Recently, however, it has become concerned with the sociological aspects of medicine, the shortcomings of the health care system and the need for innovation. While AMA membership has been falling off, SAMA has been gaining strength. It was not surprising to find five SAMA leaders in the forefront of protest on Capitol Hill telling senators and congressmen what the consequences of the loan act cut would be.

IT WAS NOT, THEY SAID, that the number of students admitted to medical schools would necessarily drop — there are more applicants than the schools can handle anyway. Rather, it means that the students who actually enroll and continue would be chiefly from upper-income families.

The consequences, while not immediately visible, could be serious.

For example, the nation's supply of Negro physicians, which never was large, has dwindled recently, and enrollment at the two medical schools which train most black doctors — Howard in Washington and Meharry in Nashville — has dropped. And, as was pointed out last month in Modern Medicine, a professional journal: "Only one in 5,000 Negroes becomes a physician, compared with one in 670 whites."

NOR IS IT ONLY THE young man or woman thinking of medical school who may be lost by the budget squeeze. With other credit sources tight, those already on the way to a medical degree may have to interrupt their training or, especially if they have families, simply drop out.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare's Office of Education and the AMA both have programs to guarantee loans for students, but the maximum interest rate for the loans can be no higher than seven percent. With 7½ percent the going rate required by commercial banks, an impecunious medical student is likely to find that lending institutions do not want his trade.

The irony of the situation, furthermore, is that the same $5 million that was to have been added to the budget for health professions loans in the budget proposed by the Nixon administration seems to have been allotted to medical school construction instead.

ALTHOUGH MANY MEDICAL schools are indeed handicapped by outmoded, overcrowded facilities, to remedy this situation now at the expense of student training would be to waste the thousands of dollars already invested in the education of one.

Last but not least, cutting back the health professions loan program, while an immediate economy, will have the opposite effect in the long run. With the average physician's annual income in this country now more than $25,000, the young man or woman who becomes a doctor can be expected to pay far more in taxes than if he or she plied almost any other trade.

Gentlemen, stop your carburetors!

By DON MACLEAN

WASHINGTON — The owners of Rolls-Royces will get no sympathy from me. Recently they received the shocking information that the steering mechanisms in their cars were faulty and that dealers were recalling them. That's tough, but I have my own problems.

I don't own a Rolls. I intend to some day, when I have $19,000 to spare, but my last four cars have been American's economy-class answer to the Rolls, namely the Cadillac. (So I'm ostentatious. It's the result of a deprived childhood.)

Never did I have one called back until Ralph Nader began bedeviling General Motors. Before that, if there was anything seriously wrong with my machine I never knew it, and I was happy. But now I live in constant apprehension.

ABOUT FOUR MONTHS ago the dealer called and said I had to bring my car back. It seems a small shaft in the oil pump was square when it should have been round, or vice versa, and someday this might cause my engine to burn up. I took the car back and this was fixed, at no charge.

Recently I got a letter, by certified mail, from the Cadillac Motor Car Division, General Motors Corp., in Detroit. The letter got right to the point:

"Cadillac has determined that the carburetor fast idle cam on your 1968 Cadillac may crack over a period of time. If such cracking is followed by a separation of the cam from the shaft, the likelihood is that the only problem noticeable to the driver would be the absence of any idle on cold engine start-up."

WELL, NOTHING TO worry about there, eh, neighbors? But wait, it gets worse. Much worse.

"However, it also is possible that a piece of the cam may become lodged in the throttle linkage, which could prevent the throttle from closing. If this should occur while the vehicle is in motion, the vehicle will not slow down when the driver removes his foot from the accelerator pedal."

GM does not use an exclamation point at the end of that sentence, but I think it needs one, don't you? The letter continues:

"While this is a remote possibility, if it does occur the driver should shift the transmission into neutral and bring the vehicle to a complete stop."

If, by that time, you have not run up under a truck on Route 66, that is.

The letter concludes by urging me to get it fixed, at no charge, by my dealer. But I'm almost afraid to drive the car over there.

The Pueblo verdict

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — So the book is closed on the Pueblo incident. "They have suffered enough," said Navy Secretary John Chafee, and at first glance that might appear to be a judgment with which all compassionate persons would agree.

But it is not a satisfactory judgment. It is only superficially a happy ending. Cmdr. Lloyd Bucher, his aides and his superiors do not go forth with a verdict of acquittal. "I make no judgment regarding the guilt or innocence of any of the officers of the offenses alleged against them."

To describe Chafee's decision as a disappointing last act is not to venture a frivolous objection. The Pueblo incident, whatever else it may have been, ranked among the great stories in naval history. The Navy does not run on fuel oil alone; it runs on tradition also, on the tales that are told on watch, on chronicles of glory and disaster. Great stories have to have great endings; at least they have to have decisive endings.

CHAFEE'S DECISION IS LIKELY TO BE LEAST SATISFACTORY, in the long run, to the affected officers themselves. Bucher and his co-defendants may not agree with that view, but every student of public opinion knows the truth of Mark Antony's maxim: The evil that men do—or may have done—lives after them. For years to come, all that may be remembered of Lloyd Bucher is that a naval court of inquiry recommended his court-martial for "permitting his ship to be searched while he had the power to resist." And how did the court-martial turn out? Well, it will be said, the court-martial never came off; no further disciplinary proceedings were held.

This is not fair to Bucher, but public opinion is not always fair. Public opinion tends to remember the worst and forget the best. For the record, therefore, it ought to be emphasized that the court of inquiry not only preferred formal charges against the Pueblo's commander but also praised him for the outstanding leadership he provided during the long period of internment. He "upheld morale in a superior manner." He contributed to the ability of the crew to hold together during the months of deprivation and torture. This was heroic conduct, meriting the highest praise. The Navy needs heroes.

And yet . . . and yet . . .

THE FIVE COUNTS AGAINST BUCHER, THE THREE COUNTS against Lt. Stephen Harris, the other charges and recommendations of the court of inquiry—all these hang in the air like an unresolved chord. They will remain in speculation always. Perhaps Bucher would have been acquitted. Perhaps not. We will never know. And the not knowing, from Bucher's point of view, may prove a more painful suffering than the agonies visited upon him by the North Koreans.

Finally, it has to be said that Chafee's decision is unsatisfactory in terms of the Navy's relations with the public at large. These are not happy times for the armed services. Perhaps never in our history has so much mistrust surrounded the centers of command. It will be said, inevitably, that Chafee was motivated not by compassion alone but also by a desire to cover up.

His own statement invites a cynical interpretation. The court of inquiry recommended formal reprimands for Rear Adm. Frank L. Johnson and Capt. Everett B. Gladding. They failed to anticipate the crisis that arose. But that general accusation, said Chafee, "could be leveled in various degrees at responsible superior authorities (throughout) the chain of command." In fairness, "the consequences must be borne by all."

This may be true. But was there, somewhere along the line, an officer who gave timely warning? In the context of the Pueblo's mission, had the principle of freedom of the seas truly been assumed "at every level of responsibility"? If all share the blame, including men who escaped the sufferings of captivity, should not some at least be censured? Chafee's action may be just; it may be humane; it may be the best that could be devised. But it's a letdown all the same.

Harris Poll

Views on crime

By LOUIS HARRIS

A substantial majority of the American people—59 percent—do not feel crime is increasing in their own communities, although slightly more than one in three still believe crime is on the rise. These results mark a sharp decrease in public apprehension over crime, compared with a similar survey taken in 1967.

The decline has taken place almost exclusively among white persons, particularly those who live in the suburbs of major metropolitan areas. Among Negroes, apprehension about crime in black communities shows no such drop. The greatest concern over crime still is centered in the big cities.

Both in 1967 and again this year, parallel cross-sections of the public were asked: "In the last year, do you feel the crime rate in your neighborhood has been increasing, decreasing, or remained about the same as it was before?"

HARRIS

PUBLIC VIEW OF CRIME RATE

	1969	1967
Increasing	35	46
Decreasing	4	4
Stayed same	55	43
Not sure	6	7

CRIME RATE UP

	1969	1967	Change
Nationwide	35	46	-11
By Race:
White	35	47	-12
Negro	39	41	-2
By Size of Place:
Cities	47	55	-8
Suburbs	29	45	-16
Towns	32	43	-11
Rural	28	38	-10

Two elements much on people's minds in 1967 have now diminished appreciably in intensity. One is the awareness of reading about crime in the newspapers or hearing about it on television. The second is apprehension over racial riots, which has declined sharply. However, a rise in personal worry over housebreaking has occurred during the same period.

In assessing the causes of crime, the public lays stress partly on its feeling that offenders have been treated too leniently, while at the same time recognizing the lack of programs to alleviate poverty conditions which spawn crime. The cross-section of 1,428 adults was asked:

"Now I want to read you a list of things some people think are causes of an increase in crime. For each, tell me if you feel it is a major cause, a minor cause, or hardly a cause at all for the increase in crime."

CAUSES OF CRIME

	Major Cause	Minor Cause	Hardly a Cause	Not Sure
Mollycoddling hardened criminals	64	17	9	10
Too lenient sentences for juvenile offenders	59	24	9	8
Lack of programs to help disadvantaged young people	55	28	11	6
Supreme Court decisions protecting rights of accused	51	23	15	11
Close ties between Mafia and politicians	39	21	9	31
Individuals not helping each other when in trouble	39	32	20	9
No public support to rehabilitate offenders	29	33	22	16
Lack properly trained policemen	26	33	33	8

The results indicate public animosity toward the Supreme Court's ruling on protecting the rights of the accused has not abated since last fall. Recent disclosures of links between the Mafia and politicians clearly has not had an electric impact on public opinion, nor are people deeply moved to support a widespread program of rehabilitating offenders.

The main thrust of public thinking on crime is to focus less on long-range solutions and to place more trust in law enforcement officers. The latter receive a positive vote of confidence from almost seven in 10 Americans on the local, state and federal level.

Defense contractors aided by ex-brass

By DREW PEARSON
and JACK ANDERSON

Drew Pearson

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The closer you study defense contracts, the more apparent it becomes that "cronyism" is costing the taxpayers millions of dollars. Defense contractors have been able to buy Pentagon influence by hiring hundreds of retired generals and admirals who know how to get and keep military contracts.

They also know how to jack up the price after signing the contracts. Invariably, the contract contains escalator clauses which permit the contractor to increase his profits.

The controversial C5A transport plane is a case in point. Lockheed Aircraft bargained to build 120 C5A planes for $3.1 billion. The extras ran the actual cost up to $5.2 billion, a staggering $2.1 billion more than the taxpayers originally had been committed to pay. Lockheed's friends inside the Air Force allegedly doctored reports about these extra costs to save Lockheed from taking a beating on the stock market.

When you look over the list of cronies hired by Lockheed the company's influence inside the Pentagon is easy to understand. Lockheed has 210 retired generals, admirals, colonels and Navy captains on its payroll — more than any other defense contractor.

THE EXECUTIVE IN charge of Lockheed's "requirements" is L. C. Craigie, a former Air Force lieutenant general. The manager in charge of "plans and requirements" is B. I. Funk, a retired Air Force major general.

The executive secretary of the company's safety board, L. I. Davis, is a former Air Force lieutenant general. Two other high-ranking retirees, Lt. Gen. W. W. Dick Jr. and Adm. J. H. Sides, are on the Lockheed payroll as senior military advisers.

The company's biggest contracts are to build Polaris and Poseidon missiles for the Navy. It may come as no surprise, therefore, that Lockheed has a dozen former admirals on the payroll. And three former Marine generals also work for Lockheed.

In addition to Sides, the company also employs former Vice Adm. C. C. Smith as management specialist.

Rear Adm. R. O. Beer, management analyst; Rear Adm. M. H. Hubbard, special advisor; Rear Adm. R. M. Metcalf, senior staff engineer; Rear Adm. M. W. Shea, engineer specialist; Rear Adm. W. R. Smith 3rd, research specialist; Rear Adm. P. E. Summers, program manager; Rear Adm. W. L. Tagg, programming specialist; Rear Adm. C. H. Andrews, senior research engineer, and Rear Adm. L. D. Coates, program manager.

THE THREE FORMER Marine generals on the company payroll are Brig. Gen. J. S. Blais, program planner; Brig. Gen. R. L. Denig Jr., group engineer, and Brig. Gen. J. F. Kinney, operations planning coordinator. It would be interesting to know how much these retired generals and admirals have been promoting Lockheed in the back rooms of the Pentagon and the Army-Navy Club.

NOTE: It also helps a defense contractor to have friends on Capitol Hill. The congressman with the most influence inside the Pentagon is House Armed Services Chairman L. Mendel Rivers. He has been able to get so many defense contracts for his backwater South Carolina district that North Charleston businessmen gratefully raised funds to build an L. Mendel Rivers monument overlooking Rivers Ave. down the road from L. Mendel Rivers Field, not far from the L. Mendel Rivers Postal Annex and the Men-Riv Navy housing development. When the local businessmen found themselves short of the necessary funds for the monument, Lockheed paid the difference.

TAXING FOUNDATIONS One of the prestigious foundations of the nation, Houston Endowment, has now come out for the taxation of foundations.

Houston Endowment was founded by Jesse Jones, the financial wizard of the New Deal, who as head of the Reconstruction Finance Corp. managed to save hundreds of banks during the depression. The foundation which he established now owns 100 percent of the Houston Chronicle, one of the dominant papers of Texas.

The Chronicle has urged that foundations no longer be tax-exempt.

It points out that "the 596 tax-exempt foundations (under study by Rep. Wright Patman) had a gross income of $1,079,627,732 in 1966 and assets of $15.1 billion at the close of that year. Six years earlier these assets were only $10.2 billion."

"Private foundations," concludes the Chronicle, "are an integral part of the American economy. They, as citizens, ought to share some part of the tax burden. A comprehensive study probably would show that some fair tax should be paid on billions of dollars of this and other tax-exempt properties."

TAXPAYERS' REVOLT

The taxpayers' revolt is really making an impact. Rep. John Byrnes of Wisconsin, top Republican on the Ways and Means Committee, recently bemoaned behind closed doors: "What am I going to tell my constituents if we don't close these loopholes in the tax laws?"

Colleagues couldn't believe their ears. For Byrnes is one of the most hard-bitten foes of tax reform on the committee. He has consistently fought against repealing or reducing the 27½ percent oil depletion allowance, as well as other loopholes protecting big business while soaking the middle-income brackets.

It also is significant that Byrnes is one member of the Ways and Means group who has not sponsored a single tax reform bill this year. Hitherto he hasn't believed in legislating as he talks, but the taxpayers' revolt certainly has made him change his tune.

The Sports Scene

With JOHN E. WIRGES
Sentinel Sports Editor

The Pacific Southwest Conference named its all-star baseball team this week and three former Western League diamond standouts were listed on the first team.

Brad Cutler, who toiled on the mound for Jack Taylor's Kearny team in '66 and '67, received the Most Valuable Player award for the five school conference. Cutler, a portside, led Mesa to the PSC title this year posting a 7-1 record.

Rocky Craig, a former centerfielder for the Madison Warhaws, took all-conference honors as a third baseman. Craig and Cutler are sophomores and will move on to four year schools next year. Returning to Mesa next year is all-conference outfielder Joe Radovich. The former Point Loma power hitter will likely be joined by his brother George on the Olympian's squad next season. The younger Radovich is currently banging them out for the Pointers.

Notably missing from the PSC All-Star squad is former Madison pitcher-infielder Bob Thompson. He was thought talented enough as a prep player to be drafted by the San Diego Padres. While working out with the Padres, Thompson worked with the Padres of the Pacific Coast League on home stands during the summer months before deciding to pursue his education. Padre General Manager Eddie Leishman moved Thompson behind the plate and the youngsters took to catching like a duck to water. He had all the tools for the tough job. A good bat, strong arm and size enough (5-11, 190) to block any and all from running over him in an attempt to score.

At Mesa this year, Thompson hit a highly respectable .280 including three home runs. He threw out an even dozen runners trying to steal second and three brave souls attempting to take third. Mesa took the conference title with a 11-5 record and was 21-11 overall. It would seem that there would be some room among the other all-stars for the likes of Bobby Thompson. Not only does he hit and hit well, have a fine arm and give it 200 percent all the time he's on the field, but he also possesses one quality that coaches give their eyeteeth to get. Bob Thompson is a winner. His teams have won in college, winter ball and high school. Even back in Little League and the Pony and Colt leagues, Thompson has been with a winner. He doesn't give up and keeps going full bore right down to the last out.

Thompson will be back in the Mesa line-up next season and chances are the Olympians will be in the thick of battle for the PSC title again. When the awards are dished out next season, Big Bob Thompson should be near the top of the list for conference honors.

Arena hosts Indy 500

Two giant IBM 2250 Graphic Display Units will be used for the first time in the closed-circuit telecast of the 1969 Indianapolis 500-Mile Race to bring the San Diego International Sports Arena audience instantaneous race data.

The computers will collect and store at least 10 different graphic displays of race information, all instantly available at any given second, during the May 30 telecast at the Arena. The information, previously not available, will be positions of leaders and average speeds, positions of trailing vehicles, individual vehicle data, pit stop information, relative positions of leaders and best lap speeds.

Hot Stove guest list

Pittsburgh Pirates manager Larry Shepard and second baseman Bill Mazeroski will be special guests at the San Diego Hot Stove League's luncheon Tuesday, at the Stardust Hotel.

The luncheon, which starts at noon, will also feature Padre players Nate Colbert and Chris Cannizzaro. Padre manager Preston Gomez will make his regular appearance.

The public is invited to attend the luncheon and tickets will be available at the door.

Sign up slated for net classes

Boys and girls tennis lessons for ages 8-17 sponsored during the summer by the San Diego Recreation Department will begin registration on Saturday, May 17 at 14 areas.

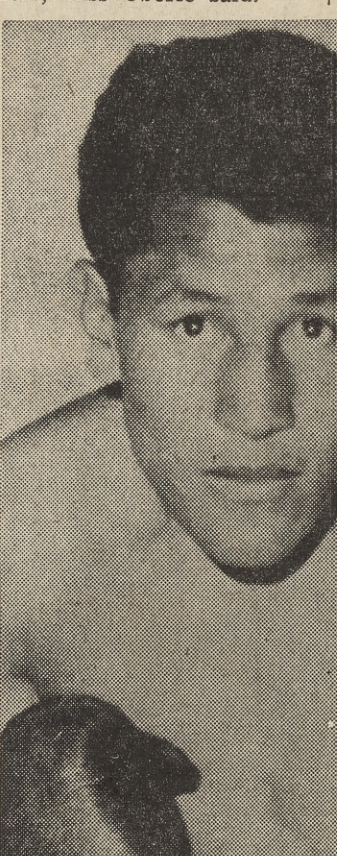

The five-week instruction programs, offering two 55-minute lessons per week with classes limited to eight, will be held from June 23 to July 28 and July 28 to Aug. 30. Deadline for the first sessions is June 13, for the second, July 18.

Areas conducting sign-up will be South Clairemont, La Jolla, Pacific Beach, Allied Gardens, North Clairemont, Ocean Beach, North Park, Colina Del Sol, Linda Vista, Serra Mesa, Mountain View, Memorial and San Ysidro Recreation Centers and Lincoln High Schools.

South Clairemont lessons will be conducted at Marston Junior High, North Clairemont at Madison High, Ocean Beach at Point Loma High, Linda Vista and Serra Mesa at Mesa College. All other lessons will be held at the sign-up area.

Instruction at areas not having sufficient sign-up will have to be cancelled or classes moved to another area, according to Mary Ann Oberle, director of the program.

Classes will be taught by college students who are former tournament players and have had previous experience in group tennis instruction. Emphasis will be on fundamentals for beginners, Miss Oberle said.

FISTIC FURY

Chango Carmona (above), 9th ranked among the world's lightweight, headlines tomorrow night's boxing card at the Sports Arena meeting Venezuelan champion Roman Blanco in a 10 round battle. An additional pair of 10 rounders pit bantamweights Chuy Chavez of Mexico against Billy Brown of the Philippines and Featherweights Raul Cruz against fellow Mexican Mayico Robles. The 36 round card is completed with a six round heavy-weight battle matching Mike Quarry, (class contender Jerry Quarry's brother) against tough Laverne Williams of Arizona. First bout gets underway at 8:30.

WESTERN WINNERS

'Hawks top Uni, 8-2

Kearny nips Bucs

Chieftains take 2nd

VINCE BREDELL
The Komets' komet

The Western League baseball race was settled Friday with good pitching, solid hitting and outstanding sportsmanship. Madison took the title game 8-2, tagging a pretty fair University team with the loss. Clairemont's diamond crew, a half game behind the 'Hawks when the battle began, sat out a bye pulling for the Dons to pull an upset and give the Chiefs a share of the league crown.

Once the issue was decided, however, the Clairemonters were the first to back slap the new league champions with hardy congratulations, displaying to the finest sense, an example of sportsmanship.

The Dons took the early lead in the second inning on a triple by Ron Monks and a single by Dave Nardi but the 'Hawks came right back to score a pair in their half of the inning. Madison took the lead when Rick Bertleson and Duane Wilkerson came home on Jerry Williams' smashing single.

The Warhaws scored two more in the third off Skip McCaslin's humpback double, Bertleson's walk and Steve Watson's single to right field.

The Dons got back into the game with a run in the fifth inning when Pat Quick came home on Joe "Buckey" Buchanan's two-base blast that carried to the 386 foot sign in deep left field. That made it Madison 4-2 and it looked as if the Dons had their second wind and were coming on.

'Hawk bats all but settled the issue in the bottom of the inning when John Sexenian, hitting a cool .438 on the season, blasted a 400-foot plus triple to right center. He scored minutes later when Bertleson spanked a single, who in turn, scored on Williams' base hit. Madison picked up a pair of insurance runs in the sixth on Chuck Fisher's triple, a hit batter and a three base error on Sexenian's fly ball.

VINCE BREDELL
The Komets' komet

'Hawk hurler Dave Blackwell picked up his sixth win against one loss as Madison posted a 9-3 record to take the Western League title by one game.

Point Loma captured third place in the league chase with a 1-0 win over Mission Bay. The lone run came in the fifth inning on George Radovich's triple and Craig Settles sacrifice fly. Buc hurlers Dave Stock and Dennis Ball limited the Pointers to two hits, (both triples) but it was enough to give the Lomans the win, a 7-5 league record and undisputed possession of third place. It didn't earn the Pointers an invitation to the CIF finals, however.

The San Diego section CIF committee ignored the driving second half finish of the Pointers by awarding the four "at-large" invitations to representatives of other leagues.

CIF play begins Tuesday with Western League champion Madison hosting Metro league runner-up Chula Vista and Clairemont at home against Eastern second place finisher Hoover.

Surf scene

By DOUG SMITH
City Surfing Coordinator

The second Triple Crown Contest will be held today at Imperial Beach, just south of the pier. The contest will get underway at 7 o'clock with the Junior Mens Eliminations.

Ocean Beach is the site today for the Western Surfing Inter-Collegiate Surfing Championships. This event will begin at 8 o'clock a.m. and will put into competition the University of California at Los Angeles, University of California at Santa Barbara, University of California at San Diego and San Diego State College. These finalists were chosen by nature of local titles within the various leagues of the WISC. This is pegged to be the most exciting of the official council contests of the year.

The 4A Invitation at Oceanside will also be held today. This is one of the major contests of the year in which all top Western Surfing Association surfers compete for a chance to represent the West Coast in the 1970 World Surfing Championship scheduled for South Africa.

Results of the La Jolla Triple Crown Contest held last Sunday are as follows:

Mini Division — 1st Joe Ringer, 2nd David Launsberry, 3rd Jeff Williams.

Boys Division — 1st Dan Knight, 2nd Claude Young, 3rd Jim Irvine.

Mens Division — 1st Tiki McLaurin, 2nd Gary Goodrum, 3rd Glenn Chase.

Womens Division — 1st Devon Geis, 2nd Gerry Gaines, 3rd Joanne Darrow.

Junior Division — 1st Brooks Worthing, 2nd Tim Hacker, 3rd Rick O'Connor.

Senior Division — 1st Jan Gasowisch, 2nd Jerry Robinson, 3rd Jim Easterbrook.

Surfing Conditions

Today's high of 3.3 will come at 12:12 p.m. followed by a low of 2.4 arriving at 4:18 p.m. Water temp at Mission Beach is 61 degrees.

Mothers' Council to meet

The Mothers' Council of The Bishop's School has planned its annual spring tea and final meeting of the year for 2:30 p.m. Wednesday in Ellen B. Scripps Hall at the school.

Mrs. Harry Lee Smith will give a report on the April 25 Garden Party and Fashion Show.

Officers for the coming year will be elected. Mrs. A. C. Anderson, Mothers' Council president, will preside over the meeting.

Tea will be served in the drawing room of Ellen B. Scripps Hall. After tea all parents have been invited to attend the finals of the annual swimming meet at 3:45 p.m. in the Hilda Janson Baringer Pool. Highlight in the meet are form and speed events and exhibition diving.

Outgoing officers include Mmes. Richard B. Huntington, vice president; E. G. Wickes, recording secretary; Charles W. Christensen, corresponding secretary, and James C. Patten, treasurer.

Others who assisted with council activities are Mmes. Smith, fashion show chairman; James H. Knox, parents' dinner; David H. Garfield, upper school party; Alan S. Raffee, lower school party; Anderson, tennis; Charles E. Brauer Jr., transportation, Pt. Loma; John M. King, transportation, Rancho Santa Fe, and William E. Ferguson, transportation, La Jolla.

Class representatives were Mmes. William C. Allmon, John R. Blankenship, J. Harold Peterson, all for seniors; Smith and Charles Barsotti for juniors; Wallace Pye Blair and Donald G. Bugar for sophomores; James McChesney and Leon W. Parma for freshmen; Thomas Van Allen Wornham and William D. Evans for eighth grade and Richard Wilson, Thomas Dobson and E. C. Rudy for seventh grade.

Discussion tea set Tuesday

STRESS, Inc. (Special Training Readiness for Educable Slow Students) will hold a discussion tea at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the North Clairemont Community Center.

The group will discuss future plans for summer activities which will include day camp and tours of interest in San Diego.

All former members and guests have been invited. For further information call 273-9606 or 273-6032.

STRESS is an association of parents in northern San Diego who are dedicated to the development of expanded educational and social activities for slow learning students and educable mentally handicapped children. The group was founded in Clairemont by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stephens in 1963.

STRESS sponsors a summer school each year for slow, but educable students.

Town Talk

By MARY FISHEL

"GROWING TOGETHER" ... will be the theme, when the San Diego Symphony Woman's Committee stages its 21st annual spring luncheon June 4 in the Bay Room at the Bahia ... Mrs. John McBride Thornton of Point Loma (she is the president) has announced that Mrs. Sterling E. Selz, also of Point Loma, will be the luncheon chairman. The performing arts of San Diego will be honored ... thus the name "Growing Together".

Mary Beth (Mrs. Sterling) has served on committees of the San Diego Symphony Women's Committee ... San Diego Opera Guild Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge ... Salvation Army's Door of Hope Women's Auxiliary ... Vassar Club of San Diego County and Mothers Council of The Bishop's School.

Finding time for her many activities followed her daughter, Elizabeth entering UCLA, where she is now a junior and Deborah, a sophomore at Occidental.

Hard-working committee members include Mmes. Robert F. Linstrom, Robert L. Walker, William W. Crawford Jr., Edward A. East, Robert Lowell, Andres Hillhouse, Edward Streicher and Anthony Barnise.

SPEAKING OF ... the Symphony (at least all the gals are going all out) the University City Auxiliary to the Symphony is planning a coffee at 10 a.m. Wednesday at the home of Mrs. L. David Smith, 5519 Honors Dr. Mrs. Richard E. Simensen (Point Loma) will speak to the members about the summer concert series.

Fund raising activities will be discussed and any Symphony fans, not yet members, have been invited to attend. Further information can be obtained by calling Mrs. Thomas L. Bartley, 453-3718.

Hostesses will be Mmes. King Durkee (she is the chairman), Edward Severson (area chairman for the summer concert series), Thomas L. Bartley and the hostess, Mrs. Smith.

WHILE OUT LA JOLLA WAY ... Mrs. L. Thomas Halverstad will be the chairman of the 1969 Summer Symphony Season ticket promotion. Mrs. Simensen will act as her co-chairman.

The six Friday evening concerts will be held for the second year "Out In The Great Out of Doors" at San Diego State Open College Theater. First concert will be July 11 with North Shores representatives promoting the season including Mrs. Edward Severson, University City; Mrs. Kenneth H. Golden, Point Loma, and Mrs. Anne McClure and Mrs. James Poet of La Jolla.

Assisting Mrs. Halverstad will be Mmes. Theodore F. Hilbish, John R. Lepman, T. Bruce Iredale, William Thompson Stephens Jr., David H. R. Pain, and Miss Vivien A. Nelson.

Even the Symphony Juniors will help under the direction of Miss Jane Peters and counseled by Mrs. Perry De Long.

EVER PADDLE ... a canoe? If you have you know what fun Senior Girl Scout Troop 125 is going to have beginning Thursday, when they make their way down the Colorado River. Practice sessions in canoes have been held on Mission Bay during February and April and discussions about the proper clothing to take and food ... most important of all!

The girls plan to spend the first night on the Marina site

Thetas plan elephant sale

The Kappa Alpha Theta Alumnae Club of La Jolla is planning its annual white elephant sale at 6:15 p.m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Robert L. Haniman.

"White Elephants and Pink Champagne" is the theme of this year's party. A potluck supper will follow the champagne. Proceeds from the sale will benefit the sorority's major charity, the Institute of Logopedics in Wichita, Kan.

Mrs. William J. Ufer, club president, will conduct a short business meeting during the evening. Mmes. Mary Stevens, John B. Marshall and William A. Wadsworth will do the auctioneering.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. Gary E. Coleman or Mrs. Thomas F. Jones.

CHECKING UP

It's the girls who propose

By L. M. BOYD
Special to the Sentinel

The medicos say they're now wondering why it is those men who tend to get seasick are also apt to be the fellows who can't hold their liquor. . . . Unfortunately for a surprisingly large number of girls called Peg, says our Name Game man, nothing appeals to them quite so much as unhappily married men. . . . Now the computer boys say you have one chance in 7,200 of winning a beauty contest. What do you think of that, mister?

Boyd

TYPING—DO YOU TYPE? IF SO, can you think of any sentence you can type with the right hand only? How about this dilly: "In July, Molly, I'll look in upon my jumpy polo pony up in hilly Honolulu." Certainly is good to know, in the event you ever hurt your left hand, but need to say something like that to somebody named Molly. Incidentally, what's a dilly? And how does it differ from a doozie? Going to have to put our Language man on that.

AM ASKED IF I EVER SAW AN ALBINO DEER. No, sir, never did. Are any such born? If so, doubt they survive. An albino has no sense of smell. And a deer without its nose in the wind doesn't stand much of a chance. . . . The jargon of the military men has degenerated something awful in the last 50 years, i.e., what used to be called "No man's land"—so personal and poetic—now is stuffedschickly known as "The Demilitarized Zone."

PROPOSALS—"SEVEN OUT OF 10 MARRIAGE proposals, I am convinced, are engineered entirely by the brides," writes a Lansing, Mich., minister. He says 30 years' experience in officiating at weddings leads him to this conclusion. "Two out of 10 proposals might be described as the result of mutual courtships in which both the groom and the bride are equally eager. And one proposal in 10 originates solely as the groom's idea."

CUSTOMER SERVICE: Q: "WHAT'S THE 'L' stand for in your initials, bud?" A. That's for Lou which is for Louis. But as I've said, please don't call me Louie. It makes me feel bad. . . . Q. "To settle a little thing here, please advise us whether it's true that Tchaikovsky carried on an extra-curricular love affair with the widow Natjada von Meck?" A. You must be a music scholar. I had to look 10 different places to check up on that. Turns out Tchaikovsky never met Madame von Meck. She gave him what today would amount to about $150,000, but on the absolute condition he would never try to see her face to face. I guess he wanted the money.

MUSIC—ASKED FIVE MUSICALLY MINDED COL-lege scholars the other day each to name his or her favorite singer. None of the five could single out such a vocalist. Amazing! You and I, brother, said Nat Cole or Judy Garland or Frank Sinatra or Ella Fitzgerald or Mr. Crosby. Find this odd, that there's a clutch of campus kittens now who pay no preference to personalities, but only listen to sounds. Amplify the Positive and echo box the Negative and latch on to Mr. Chord Machine. You and I, brother, sat cross-legged on our bunks with the soles of our feet in our hands and wondered if Billie Holiday ever cried in her sleep or Al Jolson ever whistled.

YOUR QUESTIONS AND COMMENTS ARE WEL-comed and will be used wherever possible. Address mail to CHECKING UP, c/o the Editor, the Sentinel, 2724 Garnet Ave., San Diego 92109.

Bingo group sets meeting

The Bingo Committee of San Diego Non-Profit Organizations will hold a general meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall, 19th and Broadway.

Invitations have been extended to members of the City Council and other public officials, and to representatives of church and fraternal organizations.

The Bingo Committee wants bingo playing legalized.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

By
DOCTOR JOHN J. FLYNN
Doctor of Chiropractic

Q—I'm a highschool teacher and I suffer from killing migraine headaches. I'm completely useless when they strike. Can anything at all be done?

A—Chiropractic research proves conclusively that chronic recurring migraine headaches, called vascular headaches, result when tiny vertebrae in the neck become misaligned or displaced on the spinal column. When these tiny neck bones are forced out of their normal position from strain, an old household accident, or something as simple as a hearty slap on the back, then the nerves that pass through the vertebral openings become pinched or stretched. This nerve pinching impedes the flow of nerve energy to the head causing in addition to the blinding headaches, irritability, nausea and sensitivity to bright light. These excruciating migraine headaches can often be felt in the temples, the entire face and the neck. Such recurring migraine attacks can lead to serious emotional breakdown. I'd have a Chiropractic checkup to determine if a spinal misalignment in your neck is causing the nerve pinching traction that, in turn, is causing the migraine condition. If this is the case, a simple Chiropractic adjustment can relieve the problem.

Stuffed Up From Asthma Q—I'm constantly stuffed up from asthma. I've tried everything. My friends suggested I call you. What can you do if anything?

A—You sound like you've already given up on finding relief from your health problem. Your asthmatic spasms, as you're probably well aware of, are caused by a constriction of your bronchial tube. This, in turn, is caused by an abnormal contraction of the bronchi or small branches. This is what causes you the great difficulty you have in expelling air from your lungs—what causes you to be stuffed up. What you should also be aware of, though, is that this constriction is often caused by an irritation to the nerves supplying nerve energy to the tiny bronchi. Eliminating this nerve interference has provided relief in many asthma cases. Have a Chiropractic examination and a little more confidence that you can be helped.

Doctor Flynn welcomes your letters on health problems. Mail your questions to his office at 6943 Linda Vista Road or telephone for an appointment to discuss your problem directly with him. As a public service, Doctor Flynn provides spinal examinations and consultations without obligation. Phone now for an appointment 278-2902.

READERS' VIEWS

Brown hillsides ugly? Maybe not

Editor, the Sentinel:

I was surprised to learn that I have been driving daily past an "eyesore." "I'm referring to the stretch of Canon St. between Rosecrans St. and Catalina Blvd. that Clark Brott so roundly criticized in the Sentinel. Was he alluding to unsightly litter or billboards? He was not. His criticisms were directed at the grasses, weeds and wildflowers with which nature has seen fit to cover the hillsides and canyons of southern California.

True, these plants, which are green and blooming now, will turn brown and dry in another month, but does this change necessarily mean they also will become "ugly"? Are we to believe that a carefully clipped and contoured stretch of perennially green grass is the only criterion for beauty?

I feel this area has a quiet, natural beauty and makes a charming contrast to the neatly laid out gardens of Point Loma. It's an oasis where progress is measured by nature's yardstick, not man's; a gentle reminder of the changing season's in an almost seasonless land.

Instead of trying to make this canyon conform to man-made standards of perfection, why not attempt to add to the natural beauty already existing there by the introduction of native live oak and sycamore trees, and give our tourists a view of that increasingly rare commodity—the vanishing California countryside?

Mission Beach plan attacked

Editor, the Sentinel:

The Mission Beach Town Council has been extremely concerned about the Mission-Pacific Beach Planning Committee's land use portion of the proposed plan as it relates to Mission Beach.

Ken Kellogg and Mrs. Judy Brown, newly elected members of the Mission-Pacific Beach planning group, seem to be the only two members—among the 18-member executive board—who are really defending the property owners' views for Mission Beach.

Mrs. Brown says that "the Mission-Pacific Beach plan, to date, has lacked the freedom of choice by the majority of property owners to select what economic long-range planning criteria they desire."

Kellogg, who is an architect, planner and chairman of the Planning Advisory Board on the Mission Beach Town Council says, "We believe the people who are specifically and directly involved with these problems do have the good sense to decide for themselves what is best for their situation." Economists and social behavioral scientists recently have been discovering that this philosophy has merit.

As Kellogg says, "The plan as it stands is a bomb, and many people of Mission Beach have been indoctrinated to a degree of belief that high-rise criteria is their inevitable fate. The Mission Beach Town Council poll proves otherwise."

Again quoting Mrs. Brown, "If the people of Mission Beach stand together on this issue of wanting grassroots representation in planning, they will have it. It is not too late, but it is close."

Mrs. Frederick strikes back

Editor, the Sentinel:

For the edification of Mrs. Gertrude Ryan, who continuously attacks me personally but seems not to know the art of debate, may I refer her to that most popular reference book, the Bible? Luke 18, verses 10 through 13 (the Publican and the Pharisee).

I have five sons and four daughters. The other day one of my sons came to see me with a gift and flowers. One of my daughters gave up a scholarship to enter a convent. So my children are doing fine.

As for me, as an individual, I have not professed sainthood, but certainly as a United States citizen born and bred I have a right to express my thoughts. This apparently makes me the target of bigots, both black and white. If so, I am in illustrious company. No opinion, however worthwhile, is without controversial aspects.

I am, indeed, "smarting" from something— injustice and lack of mercy. Of all people, I should be prejudiced, for I have been subjected to indignities by four races, one of which is my own. One swallow does not make a summer, however, and unless one knows the faults of another and accepts them one can scarcely call it "love." I do not recall having preached "modern philosophy"—only brotherly love.

I suggest those who disagree with me write their views on integration and the exploitation of men, women and children, rather than vilify me. I have lived through far too much to care. It is my country and my children's future I am interested in, not the approbation of the crowd.

If Mrs. Ryan is such a paragon, why do I seem to upset her so? She upsets me not at all.

John Wood 'perceptive'

Editor, the Sentinel:

Many thanks to John Wood for his perceptive articles in the Sentinel.

His open letter to mothers and fathers is especially to the point and worthy of study. It seems incredible that anyone could live for more than a few months in San Diego without beginning to understand the causes for the problems in all the schools, particularly those in the ghetto, until one realizes that most people seem to get their "information" not from first-hand knowledge or personal contact, but from the city's daily press. The daily papers (and many of the electronic media as well) rarely fail to distort, minimize, or ignore any news coming from or pertaining to the blacks, the browns, and youth, indulging instead in name-calling in lieu of understanding.

If Mr. Wood can begin to offset this racism and lack of comprehension in even one small corner of the city, his efforts may begin to bear fruit.

Up the rebels, she declares

Editor, the Sentinel:

I think the article on parents and children by John Wood is excellent. I am glad someone is finally speaking up for the youngsters. (I am a grandmother.)

Adults are supposed to be able to show more understanding and flexibility, by reason of experience, than children. It would seem that they would know enough to look past the currently fashionable words like "demands" and "non-negotiable" to what the young people are really longing for, and never mind how the wishes are stated. The wishes are justified, for the most part.

A rebel should be able to state his case, whether the authorities agree with it or not, without retaliation. The coming revolution will produce a lot fewer broken hearts, not to mention heads, if, like Chancellor McGill of UCSD, we affirm that "the resolution of these problems must demand our attention, our dedication, and our respect."

Anti-pollution stands hailed

Editor, the Sentinel:

KNBC's anti-pollution shocker, "The Slow Guillotine," was echoed by a couple of San Diego voices in the Sentinel.

The combination of that superb television news special and the letter to the editor have said it all for me, for my family, and for my friends and neighbors—and for posterity.

Please, please support all legislation designed to reduce man's poisoning of his environment.

'Walk' aspects are spotlighted

Editor, the Sentinel:

Many have commented on the "Walk for Development" April 27 when thousands of our youth joined their efforts to earn, by "sole power," money for the hungry of the world. Their spirit, enthusiasm and dedication were splendid as they limped on, determined to complete 30 miles.

Other aspects of this activity also deserve the spotlight; first, the composition of the youth group. It was interracial and interclass, all sharing a common goal. And the police, under the leadership of Lt. Bernard Swaim, had cooperated on planning details for weeks. The result: a friendly, amiable relationship and mutual appreciation and respect between police and young people. What a pleasant thing to see!

Our "Walk" has proved to us that youths respond eagerly to a chance to lend themselves to dramatic and useful action and that they can cooperate with "the establishment" and adults when challenged by compassionate and worthwhile goals.

On June 8, the city, with the help of the Mayor's International Affairs Board, will honor the leaders of the "Walk." On that occasion the youth leaders will report the results of their efforts, their plans for the projects selected, and their cooperative efforts with school authorities to incorporate a study of hunger into the social studies curriculum of all high schools in the area, thus continuing to focus attention upon the existence of hunger here and abroad and our continued need to do something about it.

City urged to finance youth symphony's trip

Financial support of the San Diego Youth Symphony's proposed trip to Switzerland was urged by City Councilman Bob Martinet this week.

The group has been invited to participate in an international festival of youth orchestras at St. Moritz, Switzerland, Aug. 18-30. In addition it would like to schedule concerts in Germany and Austria.

The City Council has been asked for $10,000 toward the $53,000 necessary to finance the trip, Martinet noted.

"I believe that this would be an excellent promotion for the city of San Diego," he said. "And I believe it would be an appropriate expenditure of room-tax promotion funds."

"This fine youth symphony will bring great credit to the youth and to the cultural reputation of the city."

"I would strongly urge my colleagues to look favorably on this request for assistance during our budget deliberations."

School band measure OK'd by subcommittee

An educational subcommittee has approved legislation by Assemblyman Pete Wilson (R-San Diego) to permit California's public schools bands to play at professional athletic events.

It is Wilson's second attempt to move the bill through the Legislature. The measure passed the Assembly last year despite strong opposition from the Musicians Union, but was killed in the Senate Governmental Efficiency Committee.

Wilson said he has modified the bill to accommodate opponents without hurting the major features of the measure.

The amended version would require any professional athletic club which requests the use of public school bands to retain at least 15 paid professional union musicians to play at the sporting event.

Wilson said athletic clubs now use out-of-state school bands, since California law prohibits local schools from participating.
